STUDENT LIFE

Tonight, Tonight, Tonight

The 1987 Junior-Senior prom, held at the Carlisle in Lombard on May 29, was an exciting evening of dancing and dining. South students, graduates and chaperones alike, adorned in elegant attire of gowns and tuxedos, danced to the theme "Tonight, Tonight, Tonight" with the band First Avenue. Others satisfied their appetites with a variety of food from shrimp to sandwiches. Later that evening, King Bob Ochoa and Queen Debbie Jozatis were crowned to top a memorable night for all.

On June 14, the 1987 graduating class celebrated their commencement. As valedictorian Alison Leston gave her farewell address and hearing their names called, they realized their four years of high school had come to an end. Family and faculty could not help but feel proud as the fourteenth graduating class of Glenbard South tossed up their caps and cheered.

Summertime Is Funtime!!!

Summer . . . the mere sound of the word almost makes you jump in your car and head right to the beach. But we can't now, because school's in session. But there'll be another summer - there always is.

Summer is a time of parties, picnics, music, and long-lasting memories. Whether you spend it in Lombard or London, it is still a time of relaxation and fun. Even though some students have to work or go to summer school, they still find time to bask in the hot sun. And no matter what you do over the summer, whether it is going to a baseball game, Chicago, Great America, Colorado, or the Carribean, you still will enjoy every moment of it.

We Now close our 1987/88 school year and prepare for the upcoming summer of more concerts, sandy beaches, cool nights, and romantic walks. May the memories of this never fade.

Back To The Books

Each year begins with the registration of students. This year students registered in the commons on the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth of August. Students followed a line of tables which had stations where students paid their fees. Identification cards, yearbook and Physical Education outfits were paid for in the first line. Underclassmen received their I.D. cards and had their school yearbook pictures taken in the line as well. After getting their pictures taken students proceeded to the book line. After receiving their schedules, they bought the books they needed in the upcoming year. Even though students must register each year the quick and practical process helps them back into the school spirit.

Catch The Wave:

"Catch the Wave" aptly described Glenbard South's Spirit Week. Tuesday gave students a chance to "catch the heat wave" in which all classes wore attire for "Beach Day". Many "punk rockers" were seen in the hallways on Wednesday, "Punk Day". Thursday brought about "60's day". Hippies were the main attraction but many students simply dug out their mother's and father's old clothes and put together whatever they could. "Raider Day" was on Friday and each class was assigned a color to wear. Seniors wore blue, juniors red, sophomores white, and freshmen were stuck with neon orange.

All students showed that obviously they weren't afraid of showing off their real "Raider Spirit". When the ballots were counted, however, at the end of the week the seniors were announced the winners of the spirit competition.

Raiders Get "Fired" Up

Homecoming 1987 started to come alive at the pep rally held on October 16 in the Raider Gym. The pep rally, led by Mr. Voves, hed the traditional pie eating contest, won by senior E.J. Galowitch. The "Mom's Dance," performed by mothers of atheletes, and a relay race between members of the football team added additional fun. The cheerleaders and Raiderettes led the crowd in "the wave", which circled the gym a number of times and everyone joined in while singing the Raider Fight Song. The evening proved to be entertaining for all.

Festivities were concluded by the coronation of the 1987 Homecoming King Mike Bunning and Queen Allison Gillies. After the pep rally, the crowd gathered around South's annual bonfire, which was enjoyed by parents, alumni, and students. It was an atmosphere everyone enjoyed.

Everybody Loves A Parade

As the sirens pierced the air, the parade began with the drumbeats of the Glenbard South Marching Band and shivering Raiderettes. Despite the chilled and cloudy Saturday morning, many fans stood on Park Boulevard to cheer their Raider spirit. Those in the parade displayed their red, white, and blue with enthusiasm through the cold. All students learned how to "Catch The Wave" during the week as they worked hard to finish their class floats. Today their efforts paid off. The senior class won first place for its colorful float, followed by the sophomores, the juniors, and the freshmen. King Mike Bunning and Queen Allison Gillies led the homecoming court on to a successful day for Glenbard South memories.

Homecoming The Raider Way

Once again, the 1987 Homecoming weekend at Glenbard South was a memorable one. After a wet night at the bonfire, Saturday luckily turned out to be a cool but dry day. The traditional parade was a sucess and the Marching Raider Band and fans took their annual walk down Park Boulevard. The floats to be displayed and those who devoted so much time and effort to the creating of the floats gained much deserved recognition. Despite all the efforts of underclassmen, the seniors won the float competition. The Boosters also had a delicious pancake breakfast which once again served the heartiest breakfast around. Finally, the games began. Although both the freshman and the sophomores fought hard, Glenbard East managed to defeat the Raiders. The varsity, on the other hand, dominated the field and ended the game in a fourteen to seven victory. Touchdowns were made by quarterback, Albert Zungolo and running back Jim Kersten. The raiders triumphed with this long awaited victory which set the pace and mood for the evening.

"Hearts On Fire"

The last of the Homecoming activities was the Saturday night dance. Many couples danced, looked for their signs on the wall, and socialized with the other students. This year's theme was "Hearts On Fire", and the court consisted of King Mike Bunning, Queen Allison Gillies, senior attendants Amy Throckmorton, Paul Skoagland, Maria Niforatis, and Dave Young, junior attendants Natasha Postmus and Brian Kathman, sophomore attendants Meg Boddy and Scott McPartland, and freshman attendants Mike Gould and Maria Gould. Most students made Homecoming night a long one with picture taking and possibly dinner, the dance itself, then perhaps a party or an excursion to downtown Chicago.

A Year Not To Be Forgotten

Every year the entire student body receives the same identical yearbook. The yearbook is supposed to capture those moments during the school year which are most memorable to the students. Unfortunately, it is rather difficult to do on a personal level. Everybody has wonderful memories which they shared with friends. The memories would like to be remembered for years to come. The yearbook is giving you the opportunity to record the history it was unable to capture. On these two pages, fill in your most heart warming memories which will be reveled at in years to come.

Too Hot To Handle

One does not need to travel to London, Paris or New York to get a glimpse of fashion. By walking through South's halls on any given day, one can get a taste of fashion.

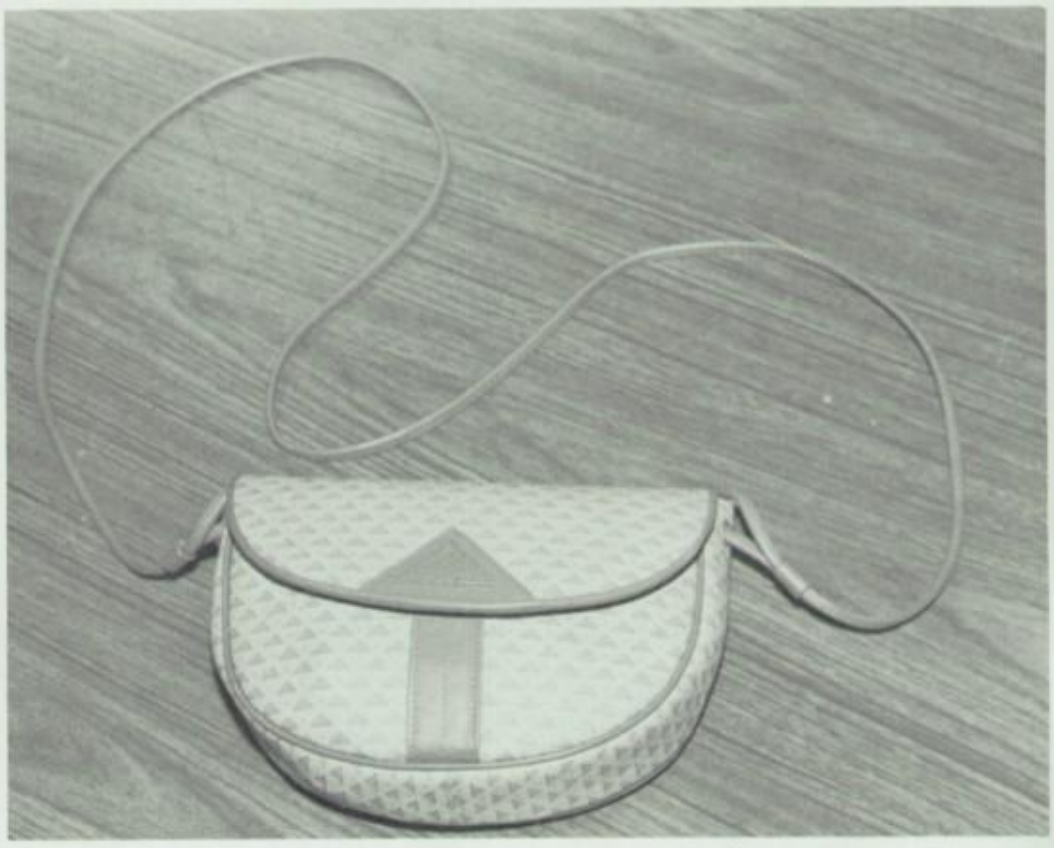
I have found that there are a few trends repeating in the fashion industry. Case in point: the mini shirt and the tye- dyed shirt. Both products of the 60's, a visitor to South can view many bared knees and pshchedelic tops on our students. Even our female staff has gotten into the mini for a second time or for the first time. Leather Bomber jackets are also common to students at South. They are also a trend that has also come full circle. Once worn by old fighter pilots, these brown leather jackets seem to be a necessity to almost every student's wardrobe.

What happens when the average student can't afford a bomber jacket? Why, he turns to the ever popular denim. This year, denim has become quite popular and fashionable, at south. We once had only dark-blue denim then came the stone-washed look. Now, a student may chose from ice washed, acid washed, bleached, faded, and even "holy" jeans and denim jackets that come with their own holes in them.

But what does the fashion conscious student wear with all of this? Boots, of course! Short boots, calf-length, brown, black, fringed, and studded boots. Even the guys, although it's only a few, are wearing combat boots.

Another fashion trend, not concerned with clothes, however, is long and straight hair. Many girls, not to mention the guys, are growing out the layers to get a style that has some moveability. The stiff hair-do's of the early 80's are out: the new wave is long flowing striaght hair.

These are just a few of the trends at South, and that's just what they are-trends who knows- maybe next fall they'll be wearing old clothes from the 70's! Hah!



Weekend Fun!

Each week which passed during the 1987-88 school year brought a repeated question throughout the hallways, the commons, and the classrooms. What was going on this weekend? Many different answers arose ranging from nothing to occasional parties. Some students just hung out with their friends at McDonald's while others worked. Sports activities such as "Pack The Place" night usually had a good turn out, along with the youth nights held at the YMCA of Glen Ellyn. This is the second year now that "Y" nights have been held, thanks to the Glen Ellyn South Youth Board. They were held on September 19, November 14, and February 27.

Overall we had a great turn out of students and more are to be expected in the future. Some students were very fortunate to get away from Glen Ellyn, Wheaton, Lombard by taking a weekend vacation, for example the Ski Trip which was also sponsored by the Youth Board.

Dancing in a Winter Wonderland

Students had the perfect opportunity to get reacquainted after a long Christmas break at this year's Winter Wonderland Dance. The dance also gave the students a way to release their building stress before first semester finals. This year, single tickets were available for people who preferred to go alone. But those who attended the dance as couples enjoyed it as well.

The commons was decorated nicely. There were cotton snowballs, silver icicles and paper snowmen. All were used to resemble the wonderland of the outdoors. The music, as well as the dancing warmed the hearts and bodies of those who attended. Over all, this year's winter wonderland dance was enjoyed and remembered by all.

Boogie 'Til You Drop

Once again this year South students gathered in the commons after several home games and danced the night away at the socials. Good times were had by all as everyone tried to strut their stuff and chat with friends. An especially big hit was the computer "data-match" social. At this event students got a chance to meet their computer selected "perfect match" and maybe encounter a special romance.

For other students, like Ken Kusmider, April, Rochelle and friend, the social provided a chance for them to play and sing like their favorite pop artists. Certain freshmen also got their chance to dance like Michael Jackson or other favorite stars.

In all, the socials were a great source of entertainment and gave students exciting memories to last forever.

Sign Of The Times

Crash of 1987

After a five year bull market, on October 19, 1987, the world saw a second "Black Monday," noted for its earth-shattering record breaker of a 500 point fall in the Dow Jones Industrial average. The "Crash Of 1987," although not resulting in another depression as in the 1930's ruined many and showed the vunerability of today's worldwide securities market.

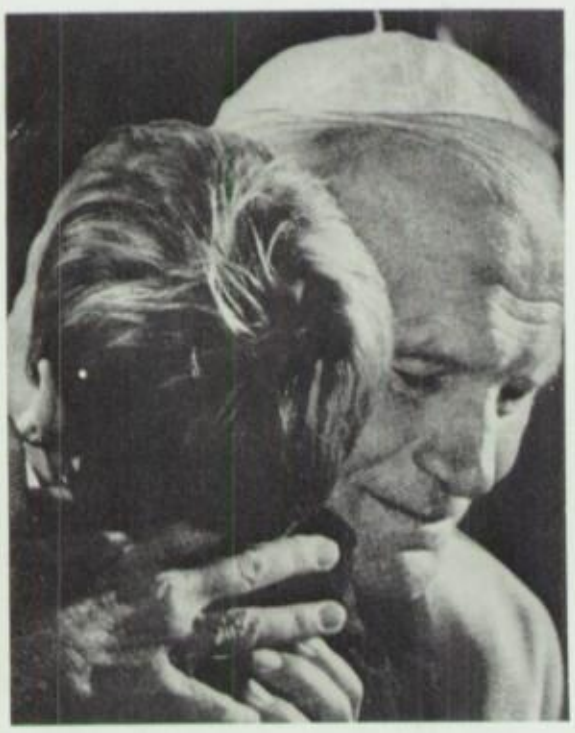
End Of The Iran Contra Affair

Originating in 1986, the Iran Contra investigation ended this year. The Investigation attempted to discover what Reagan knew and when, however no full answer was ever given. The investigation focused on the Attorney General's report that money from the sale of weapons to Iran had been diverted to the Reagan Administration. The investigation hinted at Reagan's senility, uncovered details of McFarlen's attempted suicide, and was infamously delayed by the "Plead Of The 5th". In the end, "Bad Guys" such as Oliver North appeared to be heroes.

Sex Scandals

The events in 1987-88 contained elements of the soap opera to the daily news, with many famous figures caught in corruption and misdemenor unacceptable to the American people. Presidential candidate Gary Hart, for instance, ended his initial presidential bid in May because of media coverage of his affair with model Donna Rice, but reentered the Democratic race December 16, 1987. TV Evangelist Jimmy Bakker ruined his career with the PTL ministry when it was discovered he had been involved with church secretary Jessica Hahn and had had several homosexual affairs. The Bakker family was corrupt in embezzling millions of dollars of PTL money and involved in blackmail as well. Jimmy Swaggart, also from the PTL, confessed his illegitimate sins of sex in February 1988, aiding in the downfall of the organization.

"I have sinned against you, my Lord."



Historic Arms Control Agreements

Kremlin leader Mikhail Gorbachev compromised this year in making significant arms control agreements. In 1987, Gorbachev and Reagan finally reached agreement on the first treaty that reduced the number of nuclear arsenals. Both sides acheived an amazing degree of give and take over several arms control issues between the U.S.A. and U.S.S.R.

Presidential Elections

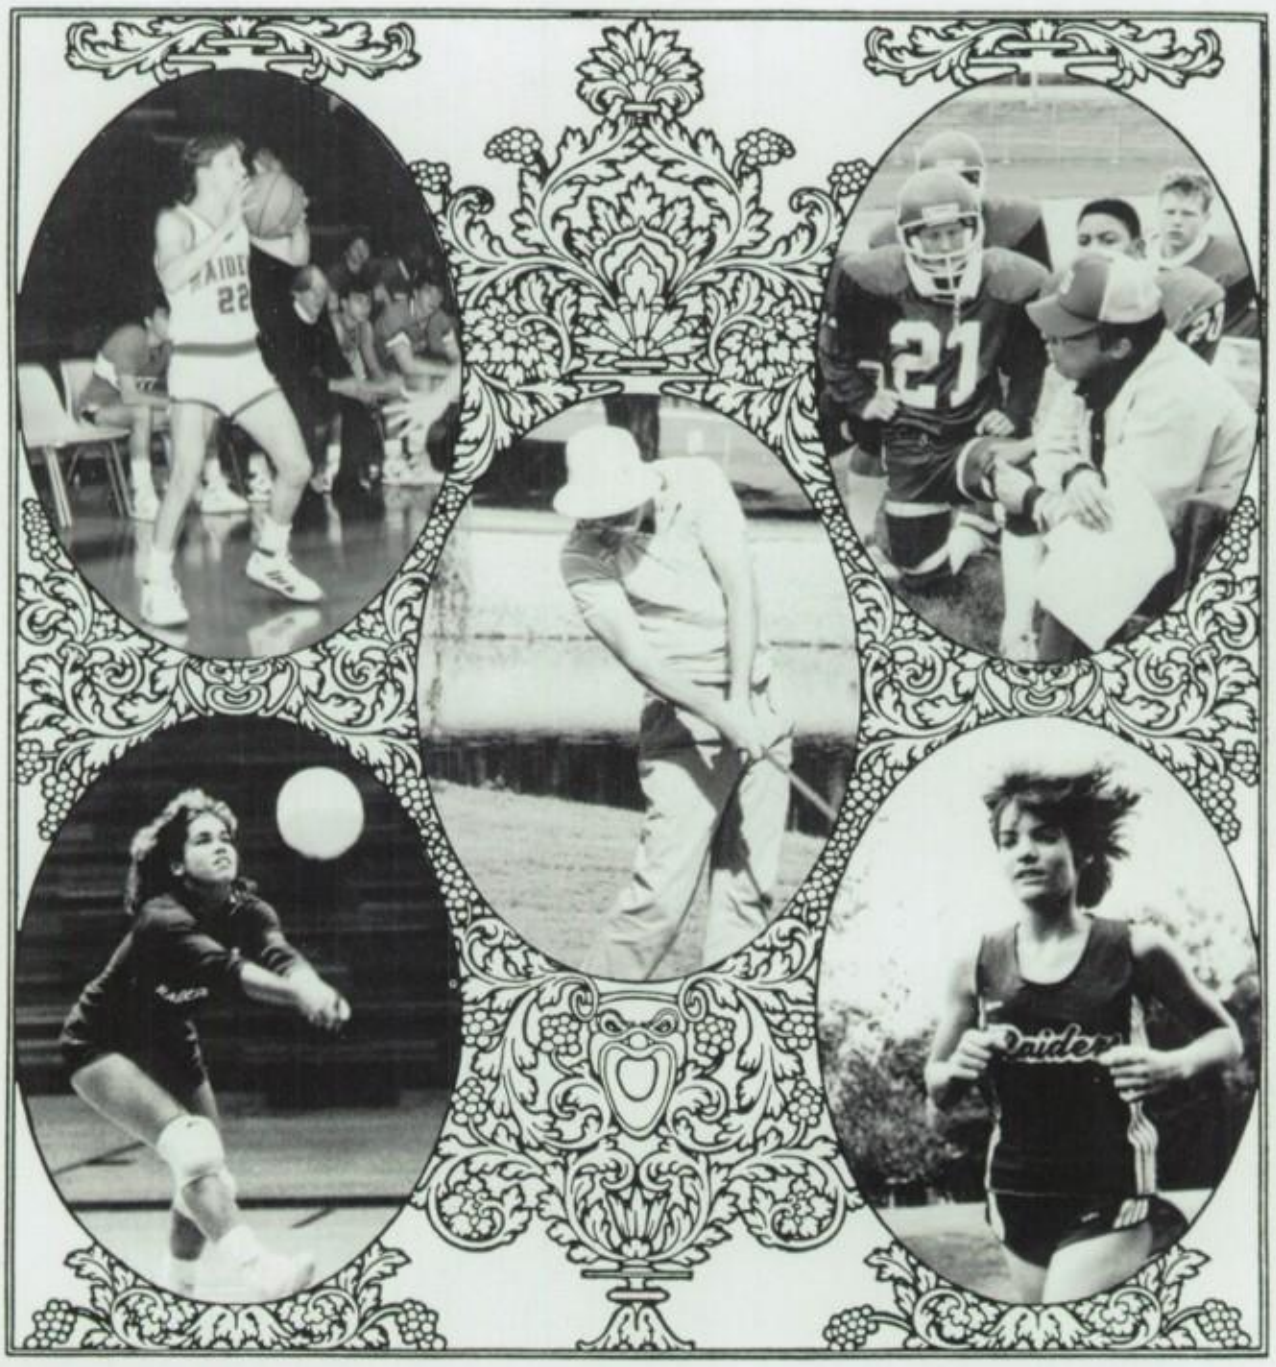
A potpourri of candidates who didn't seem to stand for anything led us into 1988 with discussion as to who can succeed Reagan. With faceless candidates, few could render even a guess as to who the new occupant of the White House would be. Leading the Democrats was Rich Gephardt, Michael Dukakis, Paul Simon, and Jesse Jackson. Leading the Republicans were Robert Dole and George Bush, with Jack Kemp and former evangilist Pat Robertson far behind. So far possible presidential elects seemed to be Gephardt, Dukakis, Vice-President Bush or Dole.

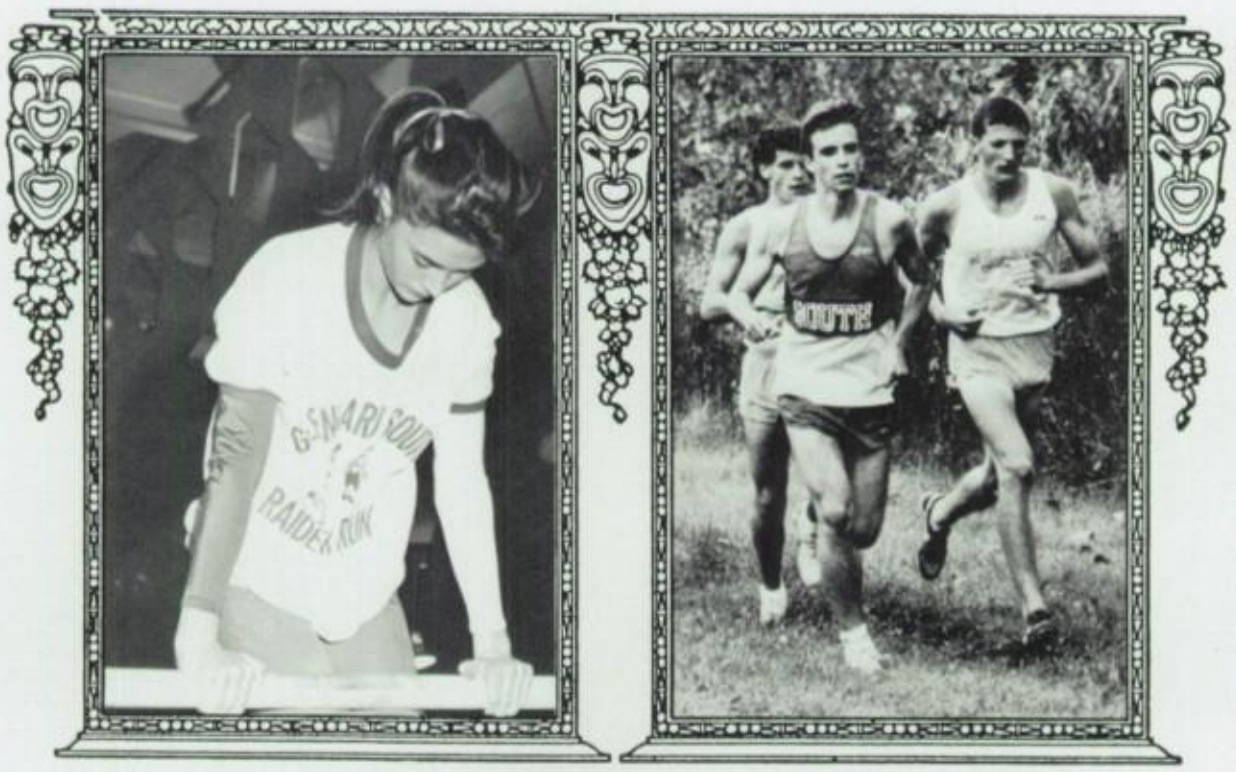
Tidbits

In Midland, Texas, 18-month old Jessica McClure was rescued from a well after 3 days. Mayor Harold Washington died of a heart attack in November 1987 and therefore Eugene Sawyer became acting mayor of Chicago. The Pope came on a ten-day visit in September and was well-received. Cecilia Cichan was miraculously alive when she became the only survivor of a jet crash in which her entire family was killed. Natiowide sympathy from many people sent her a great many gifts.

Local

Glenbard South scored an incredible 22.7 ACT average in 1987 naming the school as one of the top 3 in Illinois. Making the front page of the Chicago Tribune, Glenbard South scored a major victory in keeping its "Excellence Is A Tradition" motto.





SPORTS

All American Boys

The 1987 Glenbard South Raiders had an improved season with their great senior leadership and team devotion, ending with a record of five and three. Self-pride motivated most of the players before a win, but inflicting pain seemed to get the adrenalin of some players pumping.

Bill Hearn worked hard to make his team victorious, by demonstrating leadership to the players, teaching them hard work, showing them how to work as a team, and giving his weekly "chalk talk." The other coaches were: Mr. Phelan, Mr. Barton, and Mr. Artman.

Despite the many injuries that occured at the start of the season, the players managed to recover and worked together to achieve a decent season. The seniors this year really made it hard for the juniors to earn a starting position. The only two juniors who achieved those positions were Tony Langowski and Steve Dickman.

Football Fury

The sophomores had a disappointing season this year. Most of the players started off eager and devoted. There were twenty-seven players that went out for the team but the team roster dropped to twenty-three players, by the end of the season.

Adam Holtz and Tom Murray tried to make their team successful. Practices were exhausting and players were always learning. They have at least seasoned the players for their experiences next year.

The freshman Raider football team had a hard working season. Many of the players came in as total rookies to the sport. Through their hard work they have learned the fundamentals of the game, how important it is to work as a team, and the devotion that is necessary to make a winning team.

Coach Kevil has demonstrated well to the teams the ability to work as one. Aiding him along the way was Coach Maris. We hope their hard work will pay off in the years to come.

This year's junior varsity soccer team ended their successful season with a record of 12-4-3. The team was second in the conference with a conference record of 4-3. A highlight of the season was the 3-1 victory over Naperville North breaking Naperville North's undefeated record. The season's top scorers were Joe Lichtenberger with twenty-two goals and Chris Gilmartin with nineteen goals. Jim Daniels did a great job coaching this team to victory.

Par For The Course

The 1987 Varsity Golf Team started off the year very slowly, being crushed by lowly Lyons Township H.S. However, the team rebounded and won its next 8 dual matches, taking the conference lead. One of these victories was over Naperville Central, who, at the time, was ranked 5th in the state. The team finished 4th in conference, and 2nd in regionals to get their second straight sectional berth. At the sectional meet on Pinecrest G.C. in Huntley, Il., the seniors played very well, and the juniors learned some valuable lessons in playing under pressure. The team was led by MVP Monty Martens, who was the low score in 9 out of 11 dual meets averaging less than 40. Our individual sectional qualifiers were juniors Craig Stevens and Adam Kommers. Other team highlights included 3-year letter winner Jeff Bartel with his team-leading score of 77 at sectionals and Craig Stevens' individual 4th place finish at the Connant Invitational. The team was rounded out by letter winners Karl Palasz and Mike Kornak along with Bryon McDermott.

This year has been an exciting year for the girls' tennis team. The J.V. team was coached by Miss Janine Falotico, and the Varsity by Mr. Vince King. These coaches not only aided but encouraged the players to do their best.

This was shown by the results of the J.V. and Varsity teams. The J.V. team placed 3rd in the Fenton Invitational and 5th in the DuPage Valley Conference. These results were very encouraging since all of the starters on the team were first year starters and some even first year team members.

The Varsity team did very well this season also. Their season record was 9-4 and one tie. They finished 5th place in the conference. The MVP was Laurie Rice, who contributed a lot to the tennis year. She was 1st at the Buffalo Grove Invitational playing the second singles position and she was the DVC champion at 2nd singles. Her year-end record was an astonishing 15-1; a tough record to top.

To sum it all up, the girls' tennis team put together hard work and enthusiasm to get the most out of the season. And somehow they even managed to get a little fun out of the year. Even if they didn't place first in state, they accomplished a lot more than winning could ever do - they became supportive and helpful teammates. Even though tennis is an individual sport, they worked as a team to make it a group effort.

Off And Running

The girls' 1987 cross-country team rebuilt after its loss of seniors from last year. The team was mainly made up of newcomers. Dana Policello, Paige Brown, Leah Kuharik, Valerie Birnie, Molly Ryan, and Michele Gojdas made up a majority of the freshman and sophomores.

Much progress was made for each of the girls despite injuries and illnesses. The team looked great and is looking for a super year next year.

One of the stronger athletic programs at Glenbard South has been the boys' cross-country team. This year, the Raiders ran even harder than usual to make up for their enormous loss of talent from last years highly successful team. They had leadership from coach Andy Preuss and captains Brad Scheidhauer and Mike Beebe and were eager to match last year's success.

The top spot on the team belonged to Mike Beebe, followed closely by Brad Scheidhauer and Casey O'Brien. Additional depth to the Raiders came from John Serna, Brain Williamson, Alex Westa, and Jim Bamberger.

Lady Raiders Up In Arms

Teamwork, training, and advanced system of play, these three words described the industrious volleyball team at South. The Junior Varsity team was coached by Bill Voves, and the Varsity team was coached by Mary Grady. With the aid of these terrific coaches, the teams performed spectacularly.

The Varsity team finished the conference season with twelve wins and two losses. This earned the team the DuPage Valley Conference Co-championship. This was a great improvement over the 1986 season when the Raiders ended up in seventh place out of eight teams. The reason for this improvement was because each player worked hard to reach her performance goals, resulting in a number of terrific matches. The team played almost perfect matches against Wheaton North, West Chicago, and Fremd. The most exciting match was against Naperville North because, the Raiders were down 13-5 in the third game but forcefully came back to beat Naperville 15-13. The volleyball team also raised the most money during the Raider Run-a-Thon, to show that this year was great on and off the court. This year will no doubt be a difficult year to top.

On The Line

"On the line," a phrase that echos through the players heads, is what conditioned them for their great 1987-88 season. Coach Lohrke and his assistant Coach Dusek aided the 13 varsity players. The two team captains Jeff Bartel and Rich Goldsborough also demonstrated leadership to the team.

Their season was a good one. Two impressive victories included winning both the Batavia Thanksgiving tournament, and the Wabonsie Valley Christmas tournament. Another exciting game was the upset over Naperville North. The fan support throughout the season cheered them all the way.

The "passive defense," as Mr. Lohrke would call it, was an area of strong concentration. Their vital strength was the great shooting and free throw percentages. Many of the team members felt they were better than what their record showed.

Special recognition went to Jeff Bartel and Rich Goldsborough. Both of them were named to the all tournament team at the Batavia Thanksgiving tournament. Rich was also named to the Wabonsie Valley Christmas all tournament team. Pancho Lopez, a sophomore who moved up to the varisty team, also deserves congratulation.

The sophomore team and Coach Ricci had a fairly good year. The team was devoted and worked hard all season. They showed some good potential for next year.

Coach Kwitkowski and Coach Viverito had a great year. Taking second place in the conference shows their efforts and abilities. They too had an impressive season.

Look Out Kareem

The girls 1987-88 basketball team, started the season with a first place finish at Glenbard South's tournament as well as placing first in Maine East Tournament. Throughout the year the team had a record of 9-15. Meg Boddy, a sophomore on the varsity team is number one in the conference in three pointers. Allison Gillies was a close third in the conference for three pointers. Susan Stevens and Carrie Wager were named to the all tournament team. In addition Carrie Wager was made it to All-Conference and Hoa Lam was given the award of All Hustle. This year the team had a hard time working out team cooperation but is looking foward to next year, which will bring a strong team with many returning starters to lead the raiders to victory.

Men Of Might

The 1987-88 wrestling season served as a building block for next year. Coach Rod Peterson and his assistants Mr. Tom Ludovice and Mr. Reinecke helped the members keep their respect as participants in the number one wrestling conference in the state. Captain Mike Bunning, although injured most of the season demonstrated strong leadership and came back late in the season to help his team end on a positive note.

35 members made up the entire team. Injuries and sickness, however, really slowed them down. Another burden to the team was the lack of experienced members to fill the varsity spots. Next year, however, there will be nine returning varsity starters which will make the raiders a tough team to beat.

Special congratulations must be given to Mike Dusel who placed 2nd in conference and 1st in districts (beating the opponent he lost to at conference). Also Jim Kersten wrestling heavy-weight, took second place in the Glenbrook South tournament.

Young And Powerful

The 1988 Raider varsity gymnastics have had their best season yet. Coach Young and Coach Ware helped this young team be successful. Their efforts went out to the 7 varsity members(1 senior, 6 sophomores, and 1 freshman).

The awesome season this year included breaking an overall team record and placing 3rd in the conference. Another pleasing aspect was the success of sophomore, Michelle Kuehn. Michelle broke every individual record this season. We hope she continues to develop her skill and pursue her interests as we are looking forward to the surprises she'll give us next year.

South gymnasts are also being recognized and respected by the other schools. The Raiders were asked to return, for the second year, to both the Glenbrook South and Wheaton Central invitationals. They placed in the top three at Glenbrook meet and the top five in the Wheaton event.

Coach Young and Coach Ware must also devote time to their small J.V. team. The J.V. gymnasts are also young and show much potential.

With a line-up that was thin at best, the Raider Boys Gymnastics team gave it their best shot. Without a large team cheering for you and backing you up, when you step out on the mat for floor exercise or jump up to the high bar to begin your set, you're on yor own. But this year's team held its own with three returning seniors and two returning juniors. The freshmen-sophomore team, including several returning sophomores, did well also. With an eye on improvment for the future, strength has been a major concentration this year. In all, the 1988 Boys Gymnastics Team had a successful season.

Running With The Wind

The Girls Track Team is in a rebuilding year after finishing ninth at the state meet last year.

Senior sprinter Rachel Finn, Senior hurdlers Maria Niforatos and Alpita Shah lead the team. Junior shot putter, Patti Kaupowicz and junior high jumper Sue Corbin along with sophomore sprinter Barb Fox and Jacinda Gradle added their fine support.

The Raiders are getting strong support from a talented group of freshmen led by sprinter Maria Gould and Christy Meyers, hurdler, Cathy Pagano, high jumper Deanna Mancini, and long jumper Romana Klymkowich.

The team's goals are to finish as high as possible in the conference meet and to qualify as many people as possible for the state meet.

Fast as Lightning

Not only did January bring cold weather and snow, but a small taste of sunshine. The indoor track season had a running start on spring when the boys indoor track team began pratice.

The team was led by Coach Preuss who was the head coach and worked with the jumpers. Coach Artman is the assistant coach who worked with the hurdlers and sprinters. Coach Kenny worked with the shot putters and discus throwers. Coach Kuntz worked with the long distance runners and is also a coach for girls track. Coach Coats worked with the pole vaulters.

The team did well in the indoor season and had an equally good outdoor season with the addition of teammates from other winter sports.

The different divisions of the team are varsity, junior varsity, and freshmen. One freshmen, Bruce VanZante ran at the varsity level. The varsity team was led by senior lettermen Mike Bunning, Mike Beebe, Mark Henning, Phil Zelazny, Dave Bristol, and Jeff Failing. Returning state qualifiers were Mike Beebe, Mike Bunning and finalist Mark Henning.

The practices were every day after school form 3-5. Sometimes Coach Pruess called for a Saturday practice as well. At the practices the athletes went through a warm up including a light jog and then a few stretches. Afterwards the team went and worked specifically on their own events. What followed was a conditioning exercise and a cool down.

The Raiders were 3rd out of 10 schools at the Raider Relays and 2nd out of 12 schools at the Maine East relays. All in all the Raiders closed with a successful season.

CLUBS AND ORGANIZATIONS

Art or Sport?

This year's Forensics team achieved great success in spite of the small amount of dedicated members. Most of the tournaments consisted of 12 wins. Four tournament events are written by the students. They are Special Occasion Speaking, Original Comedy, Oratory, and Extemporanious speaking. All 8 of the other events are written by another author. Other events are Humorous and Dramatic Acting. These are designed for people who don't want to get up in front of a group alone. People on the verge of schizophrenia are drawn to doing Humorous and Dramatic interpretation. Most of the newcomers to the team start out with Prose or Verse. In these events one is allowed to have a script. For all those people who want to become television broadcasters, the Radio event provides a viable experience.

The art of forensics begins months before the sport does. A great deal of blood and sweat goes into each event to give the piece a personal touch that will make it stand out from the rest. The sport begins when competition starts. The first meet was November 5 & 6 when Joe Lichtenberger and Shawn Chen made finals in Extemp and Nick Tkaczuk and Dave Tuckinzebe made finals in humorous duet acting, thanks to the coaching of MaryAnne Lenning the sponsor.

Now one asks, why in God's name would someone volunteer to be criticized by a judge? Well if you ask any member they will give you a blank look and say "I really don't know." But down deep they love it including the over-nights, the early morning bus rides and occasionally the 1st place ranking.

Even if one doesn't make finals, the knowledge that they did their best and are satisfied with the results makes them a winner. This goes for forensics and life.

Chris Gilmartin and Sharon Goldstein are baffled by each other!?!

Thespian Troupe #357 deserves a standing ovation for a job well done. Sponsored by Mr. Larry Hart and assisted by Mrs. MaryAnne Lenning, the troupe held the spotlight at GSHS all year long! Costumes, Business Crew, Tickets Sales, Make-up, Set Design and Construction are all part oif the theatrical experience. This pack of potential actors and actresses were lead by President Chris Kriz, Vice-president Sue Ranck, Treasurer Joe Lichtenberger, Secretary Patricia Crone, and Historian Drew Seamen.

This fall, the Thespians produced an afternoon especially for kids in which the troupe performed three fairy tale plays. They were directed by students and featured many of the club members. Thespians were also busy with the fall play, "The Playroom". This play which focused on such teen problems as the abuse of drugs and alcohol on the society. The troupe then produced "Exit the Body", a hilarious murder mystery about disappearing dead bodies. Other opportunities were provided this year such as the trip to the Illinois State Theatre Festival in January.

This year proved to be not only exhausting, but exciting for all and the officers wish to congratulate all the members of the casts and crews for a successful year.

Happy Feet

The Marching Raider Band, along with the Raiderettes, flag line, and baton twirler entertained the football crowd for each pre-game and halftime. Even though the home season did not begin until September fifth, the band and auxiliary members began practice on August 12th for 1-3 hours each day. By the September 5th game against Glenbard West, the pre-game show was set and remained the same throughout the season. The pre-game show consisted of "We're Looking Good," by John Williams, in which the band formed a block "G.S." From this spot the band played and sang both the school song and the Star Spangled Banner. The halftime show varied throughout the season. It contained such songs as "Firedance," "Tiger of San Pedro," "Musical Instruments" and a rendition of "The Saints Go Marching In." These songs were also played at the Alan B. Shepard H.S. Marching Band competition in which the band placed 2nd out of 9 in the AA division, and 3rd overall. At the Halloween field show, everyone dressed up in costumes for a finale to a very successful season.

We've Got Legs

Auditions were held last May for the 1987-1988 Raiderette Squad. Summer practices began not much later to prepare for the show-stopper camp. After 4 long days of work, the squad received a "Superior" trophy. Pratice for football season, along with the rest of the band, began in mid-August under the direction of Mr. Jastrow. Marching season ended with the band receiving a 3rd place ranking over all in the Alan B. Shepard Marching Band Competition.

Basketball season continued with practices everyday from 3-5 p.m. and Thursday and Friday mornings at 7:00 a.m. Music was chosen and routines choreographed by the returning seniors on the squad. With the instruction of Mr. Jastrow, the captains Joy Callaghan, Stephanie Rachford, Terri Bradje, and the hard work and dedication of each member of the squad, the 1987-1988 season was a big success.

Spirit Boosters

The Cheerleaders are an important aspect of the winning attitude at Glenbard South. The Cheerleaders started preparing for the 1987/88 school year by attending a five day long UCA summer camp at NIU. At this camp the girls learned new cheers and mounting skills to be used for the upcoming school year.

This year the girls' main goal was to promote school spirit around South and promote a winning attitude among the various teams. To start off the football season, a pre-season "inspire the football team" party was held. All varsity players and coaches were invited. The team learned the "loyal Raider Song" and certainly consumed a lot of food. This same kind of party was held to kick off a winning basketball season.

These thirty girls show great dedication throughout the entire year and really feel proud of what they do for the school. The three cheerleading squads could not be merely as successful without the constant dedication and support of their two coaches, Mrs. Lisa Behnke and Mrs. Janet Reece.

The dedication of the girls and coaches pays off by the fullfilling response received from the entire school throughout the year.

Not only do they root on our Raider team, but Pep Club members make locker signs, bake cookies for the football and soccer players and they organize pep rallies. The Pep Club also sponsored the Turnabout dance held in April and sold carnations to people to ask that someome special "to be their valentine". Pep club is sponsored by Janet Reece. Of all the clubs at Glenbard South , this one should be the one receiving more attention as they help support much of the school spirit at South.

Delightful Tales

This year the Fairy Tale Plays were performed on September 26. "Many Moons" and "The Emperor's New Clothes" were the two plays presented. As the crowd gathered it was evident that many parents brought their children to see the plays that morning.

"Many Moons" was about a princess who wanted the moon. The king gave her a fake moon to make her happy. Unfortunately the princess figured out that the moon was fake when she saw the real moon outside of her window that night. She then thought that if the moon was taken away a new moon would take its place.

"The Emperor's New Clothes" was about an emperor who never wore the same clothes twice. A tailor made new clothes each day of the week. Two tailors came into town offering to make him a new suit. This specially made suit was to be worn for the emporer's parade. The emperor agreed to have the two make the suit for the occasion. Little did he know that the tailors left with the fortune and the emperor was seen in his underwear.

Both casts put in the 110% to put on a great performance. Patricia Crone, Sherry DeLucas, and Chris Kriz did a fine job directing this great performance.

Chris Gilmartin finds himself as a jester.

Pam Mays captivates the audience.

Joe Lichtenberger stars as the king in "Many Moons".

"The Playroom"

Glenbard South's fall play was held October 22-24 at 8:00 P.M. This year's fall play was called "The Playroom." The play was based on the lives of five troubled, affluent teens, who try to solve their problems in life but get more than they bargained for.

Judy, played by Kim Kiefer is the leader of the "filthy five" along with Christopher, played by Joe Lichtenberger, with Joe Grissom as Eric,Emily Sloan as Paulie and Chris Gilmartin as Charlot. These five kids attempt to revolt against parental authority. Parents were played by Sue Ranck and Chris Kriz. Along with all of the other teenage problems, the gang eventually tangles with the police. Police officers were played by Kevin Nonneman and Brett Cooper. The kids get themselves in real trouble when their plan to kidnap Judy's stepsister (played by Sharon Goldstein) turns out for the worse.

This year's play was a exceptional success by both cast and crew.

MADRIGALS

The Madrigal Singers are a vocal group sponsored by the music department. The highlight of the 1987-88 season was the celebration of the 10th Madrigal Drinner on December 18 & 19. The Commons was transformed into a castle dating back to the Middle Ages when good Queen Bess ruled over England's isles.

The night also included three jesters, a recorder group and a brass ensemble. Madriglas performed for organizations all over Chicagoland throughout the months of November and December. The 15 singers are directed by Mr. Michael Krueger.

Get up, Beth Keenan - it's time to rehearse.

Have some more ale.

The music department offers many opportunities to enhance musical talents. The girls concert choir, directed by Mr. Kruger, is an example of this. With twelve members, the girls choir had winter and spring concerts. In the district 87 girls chorus and orchestra the girls choir had the honor of being conducted by internationally known conductor Ruth Artman.

The swing and concert choir also participated in many exciting performances. The concert choir sang in the Fifth Annual Northern Illinois Invitational Choral Festival in addition to the District 87 Concert and Chorus Festival at South on February 3,1988. The swing choir worked with the jazz band and polished their act in order to give Glenbard South one of the best jazz nights ever.

Singing a mixture of upbeat songs and other challenging music, the choirs made the year interesting, exciting, and enjoyable for all participants and audiences.

Hit That Perfect Beat

Practice, practice, pratice. That's what it takes to be the best. This year's symphonic and concert bands went through a rigorous course load, while still taking out time to enhance their musical ability. Practice was a necessity, for the bands participated in many different concerts scheduled through the year. Mr. Jastrow was the man in charge of the forty-five players in the Concert Band and the sixty Symphonic Band players. His constant persistence for perfection kept the members of the band working to their full potential.

Some of the activities that the bands took part in were the All-State Festival and the District 87 Festival at Glenbard South. The festival was hosted by Colonel James Bankhead, conductor of the U.S Air Force Band based in Washington. Another visitor was a guest conductor from Northwestern University named Don Owens. Both were proved to be great successes.

This year has been very exciting for the Concert and Symphonic Band and hopefully next year will be just as prosperous.

One Extreme to Another

Classical music is probably not a topic brought up in casual conversation by most at Glenbard South. The orchestra this year however had reason to think of it quite often. Mrs. May, the conductor, chose a very entertaining repertoire including Haydn's "Surprise Symphony". At the spring concert this year the Glen Crest Orchestra joined the South Orchestra and played a piece. All in all, the orchestra worked hard and enjoyed the classical music played throughout the year.

The jazz band had a very eventful year. The band went to contest at Rolling Meadows and took first in their division. The band also had two concerts at south including the "Jazz In The Commons". Some members of the jazz band played well enough to be accepted for one of the District 7 jazz bands(includes many schools throughout the area as well as district 87). These members included Ken Edelman,Dave Lavko,Jason Sirvatka, and Dan Schmitt.Jason Sirvakta also went on to Peoria to participate in the All-State jazz bands including members from all over the state. All in all the members had a very succuessful year considering the young talent and inexperience of the group.

We the Raiders have our own way of putting the spirit of the United Nations next to its meaning. We don't only want to celebrate it once in a while but we want to be part of it. Therefore we have the International Club with its name focusing on the real unified sense of the students' own ethnic backgrounds. The club symbolizes America as a nation of all nations.

The International Club has been organized by Mrs. Glenn, Mrs. Anderson, and Mrs. Suess with the purpose of accepting and appreciating the broad range of cultures at Glenbard South and promoting friendship and understanding between American and foriegn students. These include bilingual and foriegn exchange students. The club activities are educational, interesting and exciting. Some of these are held in school which includes talks done by students about their country of origin or speeches done by inviting guests. Other activities take place outside of the school community. These include field trips, picnics, dinners, movies, parties, and treasure hunts. These activities are more of an international kind and students are able to experience the different cultures.

The club is really unique and one can tell that there is unity among the members. The variety of languages spoken by the members does not serve as a hindrance to communication; rather it helps to develop self-confidence and self-reliance to communicate. Altough they are different in cultures and traditions, the members are still able to cooperate and help the organization succeed.

With all of the efforts and ideas of the members as organized by the moderators and the club officers, the International Club finds its own way of being an outstanding group.

Exit The Body

The exciting production of "Exit The Body" was shown on January 28, 29 and 30th. The ten actors "clicked" beautifully to put on one of the best shows Glenbard South has seen in a while.

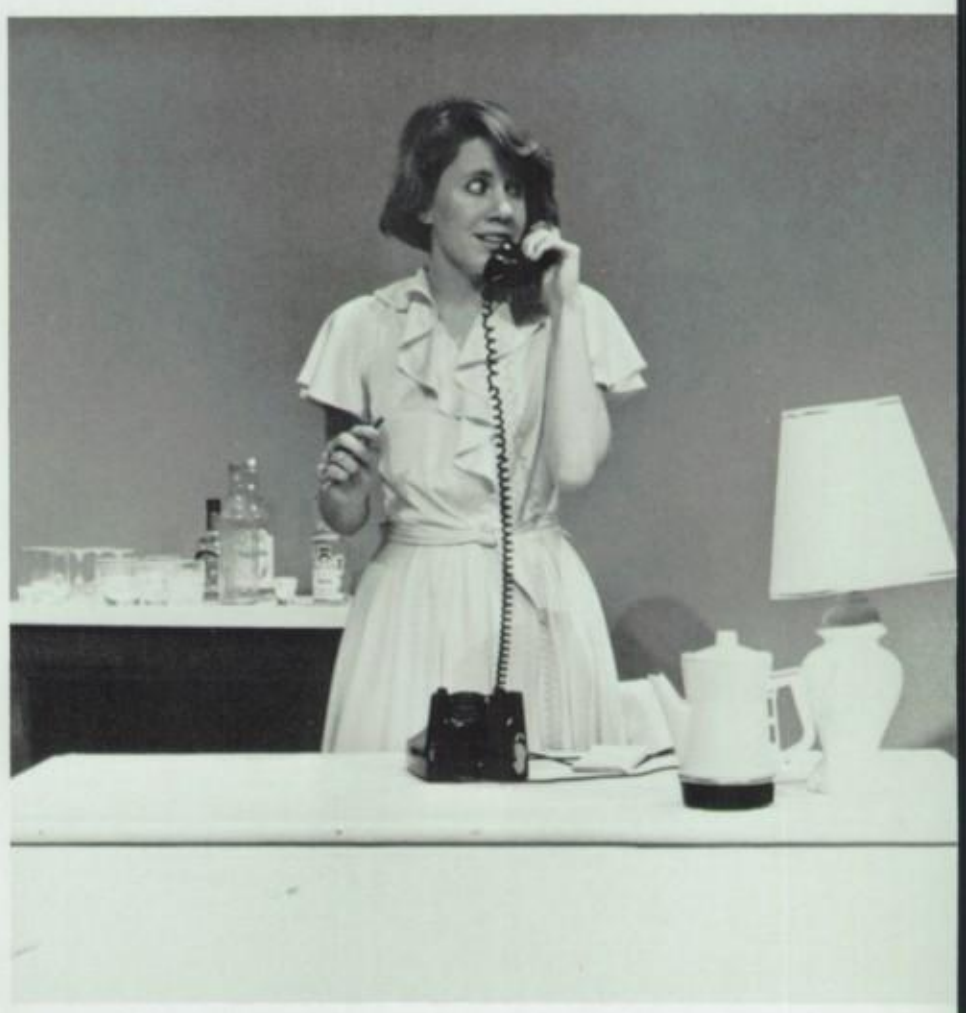
Following the plot of this zany, mixed-up mystery/comedy wasn't easy. Crane Hammond (Patricia Crone) and the smart aleck secretary, Kate (Sue Ranck), arrive in New England to vacation for a month. But in the house there are diamonds hidden. Lillian (Sherry DeLucas) and her husband Lyle (Chris Kriz) play a joke on Crane and start the whole ball of misunderstanding going. Jenny (Anne Petro), Vernon (Charles Knapp) and Philip Smith (Ken Kusmider), are undercover detectives looking for the diamonds and a fence. In the end Randolph (Joe Grissom) and Helen O'Toole (Kim Kiefer) were the "bad Guys".

Everyone who came to the play really enjoyed it. But without the help of Mr. Hart and Mrs Lenning, nothing would ever have gotten done.

Kim Kiefer explains strange happenings around the calm and beautiful Buchville.

Charles Knapp slumps in a chair as he drinks an intoxicating mixture.

Anne Petro looks on as Joe Grissom explains that alcohol makes all things better.



Sue Ranck looks worried as she is being told the distressing news by a off-the-wall operator.

Patricia Crone marvels at the operator who is making no sense.

Oh my gosh, she's fainted and there's a man hanging in the closet.

"No thanks Kim. its just not my style."

"Would someone please help me, this women is driving me crazy."

Joe Grissom, explains all to the gullible Anne Petro.

Our great tech-people are busily at work looking for a cue.

Over the Border and Across the Seas

The foreign language clubs of Spanish, French and German have many activities. The clubs participate in many fund raisers and cultural activities. Already this year the Spanish club has gone to Fiesta with other schools. There was a poster sale as well as visits to Spanish restaurants.

The French club has croissant sales throughout the year. Other sales include the selling of Advent Calendars by the German club and the annual churros sales by the Spanish club. Having these clubs enhances the actual on-hands experience with foreign languages and culture offered here at South.

Once again, this year's Independant staff worked under the direction of two new advisors, Mrs. Diane Karrow and Mrs. Marti Seaton.

After recovering from the loss of last year's seniors the Independent got back on two feet and put together a staff that was not only hard working but dedicated.

With Kevin Smith as editor in chief, the other various editors Allison Ishman, News, Heather Jordan, Features, and Rene Otto, Art, Amy and Jean Throckmorton, Sports, and business manager Christine Yu the staff worked long hours and did their best to find and report the news of the school.

Following the lead of the editors were several reporters, writers, typists, and layout assitants who filled all the important jobs that made the paper a success.

From reporting events as important as the 1987 tax referendum to everyday news to the in thoughts of Senior class members in Senior Spotlight, the Indy covered it all. In the words of Editor Kevin Smith "We gave ourselves in the name of journalism and the end result was- well judge for yourself."

Tell me about it, the Independent cares.

Ohhh, we weren't supposed to put that in the newspaper.

Heads Above The Rest

Hard work pays off. All of a student's efforts during his first three years at Glenbard South can be rewarded by initiation into an honor society. Whether it is academic hard work or artistic hard work, National Honor Society and Art Honor Society recognize each.

A member of NHS not only has to have a 4.3 average but also has to exhibit other qualities. They do not spend all waking hours studying. They must also show service, leadership and character. NHS members tutor students in all subjects and provide leadership at South.

Rob Dieter, Pres., Mike Bunning, Vice Pres., Rita Chen, secretary, Jason Sirvatka, treasurer, and Carleen Presley, faculty advisor, provided leadership. At Christmas, NHS sponsored a successful food and gift drive. In January, NHS sponsored a computer date match service. Students filled out interest surveys which were fed into a computer. The computer matched students with similar interests and the results were sold for one dollar. All money collected was donated to senior citizens.

Art Honor Society is an organization which inspires and recognizes those students who have shown outstanding ability in art. Members further their creative abilities and talents to bring art to the attention of the school and community. The society helps members work hard to attain their highest potential in the art area. Art Honor Society is headed by Art Executive, Mrs. Bowers, President Allison Gillies, Vice president Steve Langerock, Secretary Amy Throckmorton, and Reporter Charles Knapp.

This year's activities included Christmas banners, Community posters and pamphlets, and art exchange and miscellaneous school projects. Even though AHS is sometimes overlooked, its overall significance adds character and creativity to the student body.

All in a Day's Pay

Contrary to popular belief, some people enjoy working. At Glenbard South, students can get time off from school for a job and receive credit for working. This is possible through CWT, Cooperative Work Training. The course is designed to prepare students for future vocational goals. They develop good work habits and traits. The course also prepares students for job interviews. They grasp a better understanding of the business world through field trips to Chicago with visits to Water Tower and the Stock Market included on the agenda. The main objective is for students to enjoy working and to relate it to their education.

Student Union Today, Congress Tomorrow

Student Union is comprised of an executive board, class officers, representatives, and sponsors who organize social and community events throughout the year. Class responsibilites and committees are separate institutions within the student union. The committees are: community affairs, student/faculty relations, student affairs, and public relations. General meetings are held twice a month and class and committee meetings are scheduled separately.

Homecoming is one of the biggest events of the year and several meetings and a lot of planning go into it. The week's activities and themes are developed through the union. Float sites, court elections, the bonfire, flowers, and dance decorations are the responsibilities covered for the exciting week.

After homecoming, student union and classes sponsor fundraisers to pay debts and gain income. The junior class fundraiser sold christmas goodies and the senior class worked on a boxer-shorts fundraiser and earned money through socials, car washes, and hard work. Underclassmen struggled for funds, but strong determination led them to good profits for the future.

Over the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays, student union helped needy families with food drives and had a turkey and pie raffle. The union expressed spirit in decking the halls and caroling. These were a few ways to let the school and community know the student care.

February was litter-prevention month and the spring brought forth many activities: the turnabout dance, computer social, battle of the bands and the 1988 prom.

Student Union is a hard working group of students leaders that make our school the special place it is and the memories of 1987-1988 will last forever.

It's A Dirty Job, But . . .

The making of a yearbook has taken more hard work and dedication than many realize. Finding the best photos, organizing each page until it's just right, and summing up all the favorite activities that take place at South kept everyone working up to the last minute. Without the Dorian editor-in-chief, Peggy Hines, many of those hectic deadlines may not have been met and this yearbook wouldn't be in our hands until 1989. Staff members dutifully helped to produce the Dorian. Ken Edelman and Matt Minogue masterfully made use of the computer by typing in all of the copy and articles. Sherry DeLucas, Heather Norton, Robert Dieter and Nomee Park cranked out layouts. Numerous staff writers included Kara Brandt,Amishi Jha-,Trupti Gokani,Amy Dimpfl,Laura Jorgensen, Dina Chapman, Laura Breitenreiter, Kris Kowert, Christy Rutland and Melanie Kapoor. Sport copy was written by Nancy Groh. Photography was handled by Doug Cary. Finally all artwork was organized by Lori Regenczuk, and Heather Jordan. The staff hopes this Dorian is the best ever. We've done the best we can to help you all capture forever those special moments of our high school years.

Isn't it true that the Raider Mock Trial Team successfully completed another year of trial action? The 1987-88 trial team consisted of Sue Ranck, Doug Cary, Joe Lichtenburger, Lynn Westover, Shawn Chen, Karen Sorensen, and Emily Sloan, correct? And isn't it a fact that accomplices to this crime were sponsers Mr. Tom Murray and Mr. Kurt Truman? Where were you the weekend of April 8 and 9?? We already know you attended the state of Illinois Mock Trial, so what do you have to say for yourselves??

Those Who Seem to Know it All

Math Team

Math team is a winter and spring after school activity. Members of this "sport" are able to test their skills at problem solving in levels ranging from Algebra One to Pre-Calculus. During the season there are different sets of exams: the Continental Math League for freshmen, the National Mathematics League for freshmen through seniors in different levels of mathematics (e.g. Geometry or Algebra II), and the Illinois Mathematics League, all of which sponsor six, 6 question, thirty minute exams. Mathletes compete nationwide with other students in the CML and NML and with other math students in Illinois for the IML.

In addition to the above exams which are taken after school on Tuesdays, Glenbard South competes in the DuPage Vallry Contest and regionals. At these two competitions GSHS Mathletes compete in oral competitions, Frosh-Sophomore eight person teams, Varsity eight person teams, Calculator competition and as individuals in varying levels of math.

Mrs. Ellenbaum is the math teacher who sponsors math team with the help of Robert Dieter and Frank Omana who are Math Team's co-presidents.

Scholastic Bowl

Scholastic Bowl is the trivia buff's dream. At competitions Scholastic Bowl members are bombarded with questions in two rounds, each round consisting of fifteen toss-ups. The categories for these questions include: Literature, geography, current events and math. If a team member correctly answers a toss-up then the five person team is asked a bonus question which may contain as many as five parts. Each competition usually lasts one hour. Aside from these competitions the Scholastic Bowl team competes in a tournament, regionals and state finals.

Scholastic Bowl is a spring sport which was formed three years ago with the help of Miss Samper. The debut year Glenbard South was unofficially number one, last year we were first and this year, with the guidance of Karl Palasz as the team captain and the experience of several veteran players, Scholastic Bowl hoped again to be champions.

ACADEMICS

All That's Proper

Glenbard South's English department has maintained a sure but steady pace. It has kept up with its teaching of vocabulary, composition skills and grammar. The English department encourages the participation of students in South's learning skills center, Writing lab, and English as a Second language (ESL) program. Here, a student can improve his or her reading rate, comprehension level, or even work on preparation for the SAT and ACT tests. Also, students can go to the reading and writing lab whenever it is convenient for him or her. The encouragement from the English teachers is beneficial to the students.

The English department has made a few changes this school year. First, it had a complete revision of the sophomore program. Secondly, there has been an addition of a few new teachers to our faculty. Mrs. Seaton, a new teacher who arrived from Glenbard West, is the present pedagogue for the English 1, 3, and Journalism classes at South. Some other additions are two part time teachers, Mrs. Ellenbaum and Mrs. Ploegman, who both teach Senior Composition. This year, the students will also be able to enjoy outdoor excursions with visits to Steppenwolfe Theatre.

Steve Dickman is amazed at his writing technique.

Mrs. Seaton discusses with her class numerous lively ways of writing.

As Mrs. Mohan lectures, Gretchen Miller takes dictation.

Another exciting novel overtakes Christie Jallick.

Learning To Speak

Laurie O'Hanlen jokes with a classmate about a Spanish

Glenbard South's foreign language department offers French, Spanish, and German. This year Madame Hines and Madame Roesner teach French. Mr. Hescott, Mrs. Reese, and Mrs. Sihocky are the Spanish teachers. And Mrs. Ploegman teaches German.

Curently this department is involved in many planned cultural projects. There is a field trip to the Art Institute and to Chicago's Latin community. Students also participate in local literary and artistic contests. Some hopes for the future are pilot programs offering Janpanese using new textbooks.

It is because of their superior ability to teach and speak the languages that make our foreign language department what it is.

Contemplating past and present verb tenses, Jeremy McDevitt enjoys himself.

Pam Mays demonstrates her expert French by answering a question on the chalkboard.

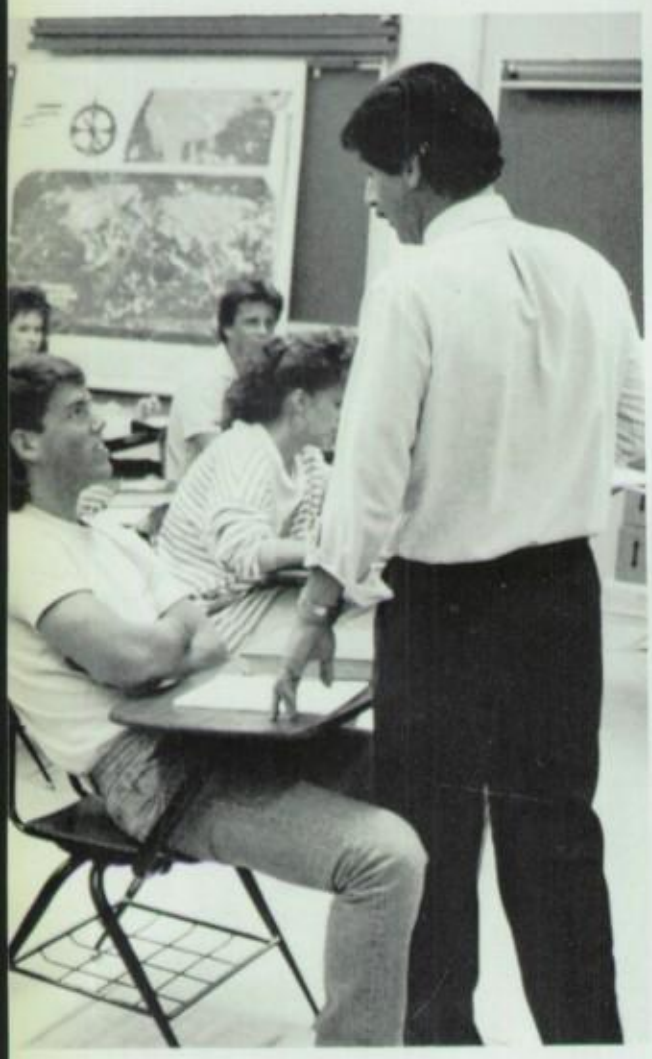
The necessity of vocabulary is explained by Mrs. Sihocky to her overly eager students.

The Science Of Being Social

The social science department has a huge variety of courses. They have everything from history courses to modern issues. The history classes alone give a lot of variety. One can take world history, United States history, or Russian history. Other classes offered are World Geography, Psychology, and Sociology.

Mr. Marris, the head of the department, says that the best thing about the Social Science department is how devoted and qualified the teachers are. This past year we were lucky to get two new teachers, Miss Poynter and Mr. Tillman. Unfortunately Mr. Truckenbrod had retired.

This past year was the the U. S. Constitution Bicentenial. We celebrated this with a balloon flying day, and poster contest.

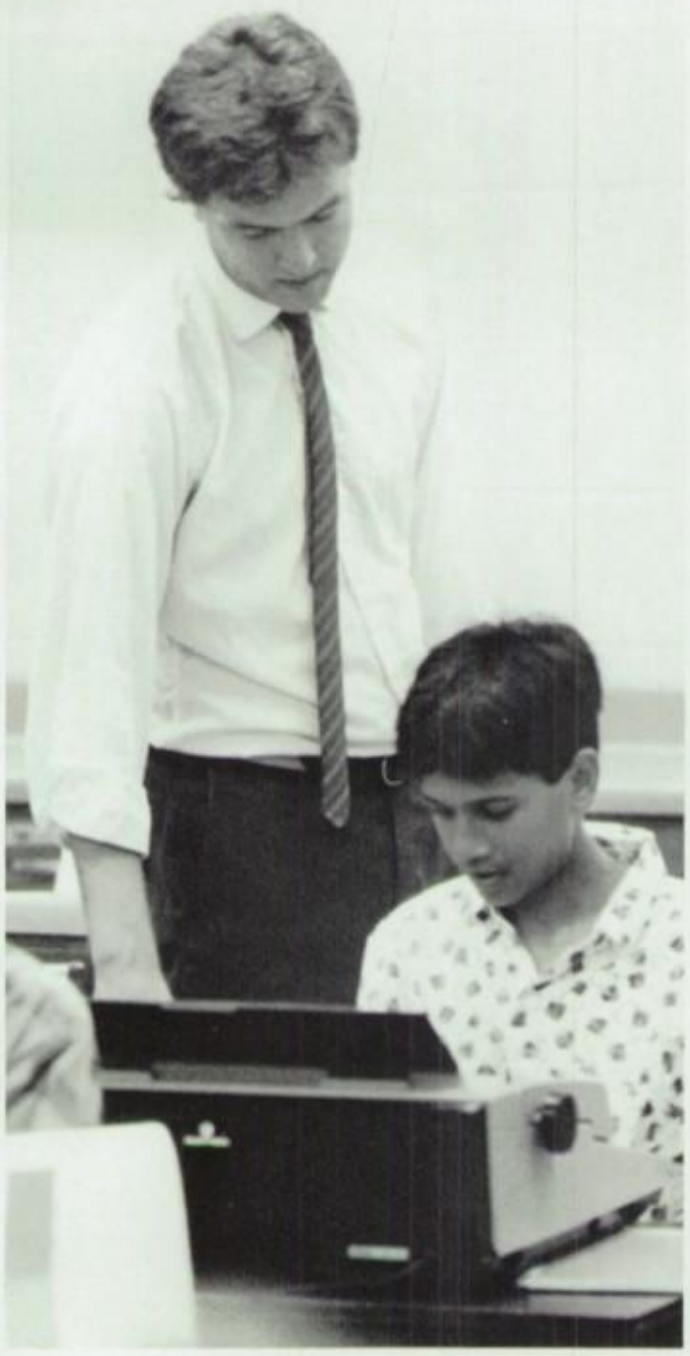


Kristin Rohde contemplates the wonders of the exciting history book.

Mr. Viverito gives a word of advice to Mike Holz about U.S. history.

Mr. Lohrke hypnotises his world history students with yet another lecture.

None Of Your Business



The Business skills learned at Glenbard South are helpful in the working world after high school.

Some of the courses offered are: Typing, Accounting, Marketing, Business and the Consumer, and Consumer Economics. There is a variety of computer courses as well. These courses include data processing and Computer Programing. Information Processing was a new course added this year.

The Marketing and Accounting courses include the study of distribution of goods and services and the principals of preparing and analyzing financial records.

In the computer courses, computer terminology and keyboarding are taught. Students also familiarize oneself with computer hardware. The two computer languages taught are COBOL and RPG.

In Business and the Consumer and Consumer Economics the skills studied are banking taxes, insurance, budgeting, investments, and comparison shopping.

A special project was planned for the Data Processing students. They had to go out and interview people from the community who are involved with the computer industry. Also planned were several career speakers.

Most students took a business course because they were interested in a career in that field. Other students took a course because it was a requirement or a needed credit. The best features of the Business Department at Glenbard South are the flexible courses and the opportunity to use a variety of computers.

Lost In A World Of Numbers

Glenbard South offers a wide variety of math courses. Beginning at algebra and ending at the ever-feared calculus. Students are challenged with a huge amount of equations, theorems and proofs. For those whose interests lean toward computers, South also offers computer science classes. These are a definite benefit in today's computerized society. For some, math classes are simply a requirement;, for others, math is a challenge, readily accepted. The college bound student has been known to take math all four years to develop an edge for the more difficult studies that lie ahead. No matter where one is headed in terms of career goals, a subject can be found which suits their needs!

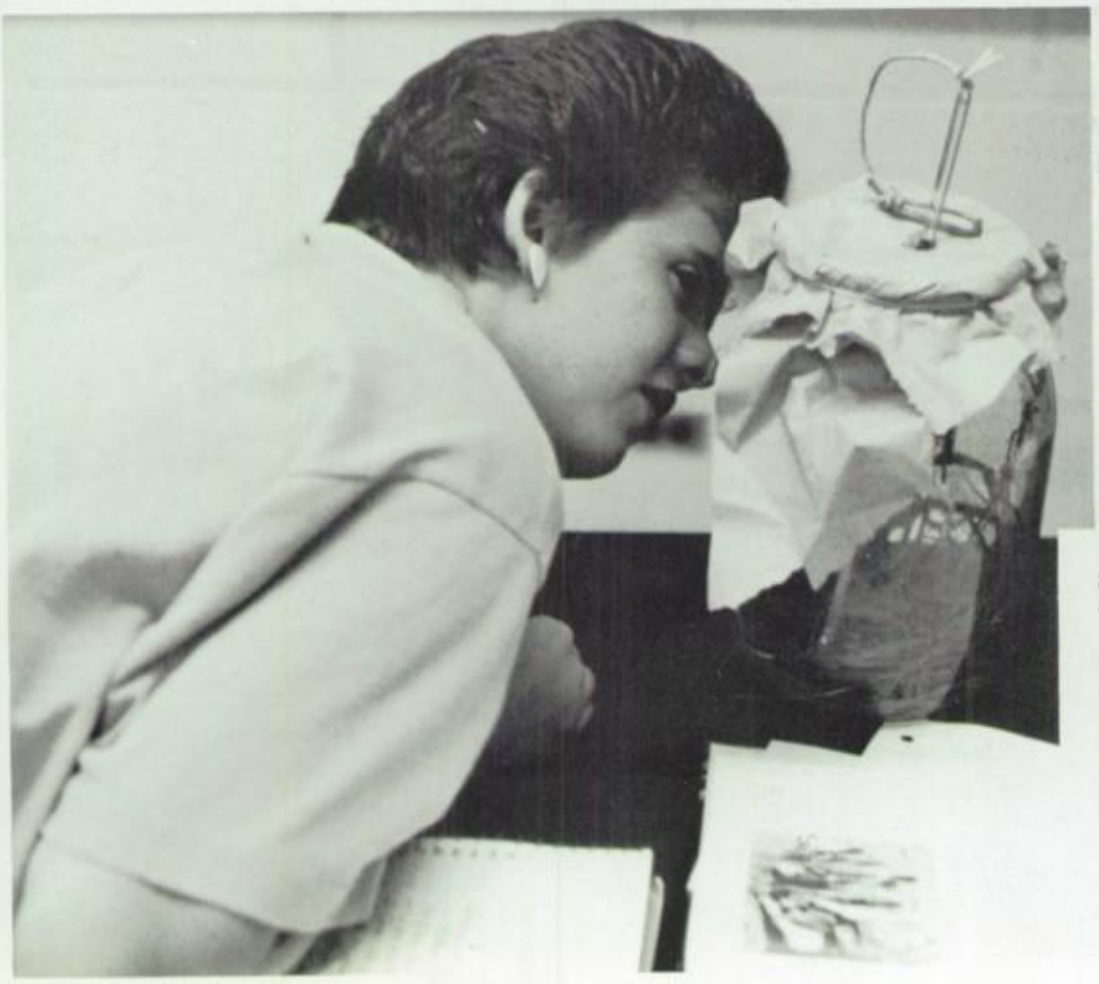
Joy Of Discovery

The science department has a myriad of courses that the interested science student can choose from. These include: ISP, biology, chemistry, physics, and ecology. There are many levels offered as well. There are the basic, regular, honors, and AP levels to facilitate the most appropriate level of learning. This year a low math chemistry was offered in addition to the other chemistry courses.

Because of the excellent faculty, the department offers students the best possible education. Mr. Iliff, is on a sabbatical this year and is studying at Northwestern University. Mr. Lieneman is touring the county doing various "dynamic" demonstrations. His touring aids many other schools in forming programs and increasing the type of experiments they do.

A reason the science department draws interested students to levels of higher thinking is because the students are allowed hands on experience in issues they are studying. Many field trips, excursions, and experiments aid in this endevor. The physics classes went to Cerran space center to see a laser show.

The new member to the science department this year is Mr. Ludovice who teaches ISP, and chemistry. He, as well as, the other teachers achieve excellence in their classrooms by using an effective form of lecture with lots of lab work.



Shelly Courtney and Ruth Michaelis are at work on a lab.

Paige Brown, Dana Policello, and Theresa Zaura explore biology.

"According to my notes, the temperature should be rising," explains Vicki Hill, "but it's not!"

What's cooking in AP chemistry?

The Art of Industry

Industrial Arts is a course from which all individuals can benifit. This course gives the person a "hands on experience" of a variety of tasks. The courses are run by Mr. Kruger and Mr. Peterson. They are planning some special improvements for the upcoming year. First, a new course is being designed which combines both physics and industrial arts. This new course would offer science credit while being taught from an industrial arts perspective. The other changes planned were internal improvements within the classes. A five year project to update the curriculum is in progress which would add computers to the classroom to be used with drafting. This program is called CAD-Computers Aided Drafting.

All in all, this curriculum is offered to any student with interests in improving their skills. It is a strong contribution to the educational "academic" classes offered today for it allows the students to participate in classes that offer manual, as well as mental labor. This, in turn, creates a well-rounded individual. This helps our students do, instead of homework, some real work.

Mr. Peterson ekplains a fundamental procedure to the class.

Matt McGinn and Rich Hesson build their dream house.

Glenbard Gourmet

This year there are seven classes offered in the Home Economics department. The department is offering two new classes. Fashion Workshop I and II cover a series of topics relating to fashion and the Fashion Industry. In the past,the Home Economics department has offered the traditional sewing and cooking classes. The students in Fashion Workshop I and II really enjoyed the class.

Child Development involves social, emotional, physical, intellectual and human development. During the second quarter the students get a touch of dealing with preschoolers ages four and five. Kids living within the limits of District 87 are involved in this class project.

Human Relations becomes more involved with the aspects of dating, marriage preparation and marital adjustment. This course is shooting towards emotional maturity of the students. Interior Design breaks down into two topics, housing and interior design. All aspects of design, construction of rooms or houses, and buying your accessories wisely for your house are taught. The Principles of Design are helpful guidelines for future interior purchases.

Consumer Management has a strong emphasis on personal resources, credit buying, and comparison shopping. This course is most beneficial to students who need to learn to manage time and money effeciently.

Lastly, Home Economics offers a variety of food courses to our students interested in cooking. Beginning foods explores the basic techniques of cooking which prepare students for vocational and home food preparation. There are four other courses which become more involved with cooking. They are Intermediate Foods, Gourmet Foods, Chef 1, and Chef 2. Any of these classes are an advantage towards growing successfully in a career.

Men at work include Matt Minnick, Mike Erickson and Dave Young.

Colleen Dwyer cooks up a storm.

Kelley Hogan and Jason Hale enjoy good home cooking.

Lerry Knox puts his creation into the oven to bake.

Designers Of The Future

This year, the Art Department is offering an exciting agenda. Not only have they brought back commercial Art II, which has not been part of the art curriculum for several years, but two field trips have been scheduled as well. In addition, during the year, students art work will be entered at different art contests. Mrs. Bowers teaches all the art classes. Mrs. Evans is in charge of teaching photography.

This year the Drawing and Painting class and the Commercial Art class will be involved in several field trips. The Drawing and Painting will be taking an interesting trip to the Art Insitute, and the Commercial Art class will be visiting Northern Illinois University to participate in Artstreck.

Two examples of Art contests that will be offered this year to students, are the Danada Farm and Nature Art Contest and the Scholastic Art Show.

When asked what was an outstanding feature of the Art department, Mrs. Bowers commented that it offered a wide experience of Art techniques and approaches. Mrs. Bowers also pointed out that in the classes offered by the Art department students are able to see and learn about a variety of Art history as well as their own styles and techniques

Music, Music Everywhere

This year, once again, the Music Department was at its best. The vocal groups at south are great. The largest of these groups is the concert choir, usually consisting of about forty to fifty students. There are also the girls choir and the swing choir. They give many performances every year and are some of the most talented organizations. Among the concerts is the annual Madrigal Dinner where the Madrigal group once again proved to be stupendous. Also involved in the department are the string orchestra, Jazz Band, Symphonic Band, and the Concert Band. They also performed great concert after concert. These groups play with such expertise and finesse, one would think one were listening to professionals rather than high school students. Thanks to all participants, the music department was as exciting to its members as to its audiences.

Brendan King and Chris LaCroix excel at reading music.

No! the F chord not the G chord.

Jenny Hesterman blows away on her french horn.

Dave Hughes merrily strums along.

Cat Got Your Tongue

A broad range of classes are offered by the speech arts department and taught by Mr.Larry Hart and Mrs. Maryanne Lenning.

A speech class is required to be taken by all students in order to graduate. Speeches to inform, entertain, persuade, and guide career choices are presented. Group discussions, debates, oral interpretation, and parlimentary procedure are also studied and given. Forensics is another class which fulfilles the speech requirement. Acting and Directing part one and two, and Radio and Television are courses which interest the student with a dramatic aspect. These courses help the student with an underastanding of theater.

During the course of a year, the speech arts department performs at least one group of fairy tale plays, two full-length plays(one serious, one comedy), and an all-school musical held at the end of the year.

While having fun, each student is able to improve his or her speaking skills while getting a background in public speaking and the theater.

After presenting a great report Paco Gonzales breathes a sigh of relief.

Craig Fenne contemplates the answer to a tough question about his speech.

After hearing 5 speeches the class turns into zombies.

Mr. Hart once again hastes to help students use the card catalog.

Working For The Future

Probably the most "special" class Glenbard South has to offer is the class for the DLP II students. Developmental Learning Program II students travel from Bloomingdale, Addison, and Lombard. They are here five days a week from 9:00 AM until 3:00 PM. The Average size of this class is fourteen students. Four times a week in the afternoon, these students go out into our community. They do challenging tasks that seem so simple to us but may be difficult for them. For example, they will go to a store and must buy something and pay the clerk. These students have domestic tasks which consist of cooking, doing laundry and the cleaning of a home. Vocational tasks involve filling out a job application for example. All of the students have jobs. They are a welcome part of South's student body.

DLP II students learn the wonders of the business world and money exchange.

These students take a break from the classroom to play some football outdoors.

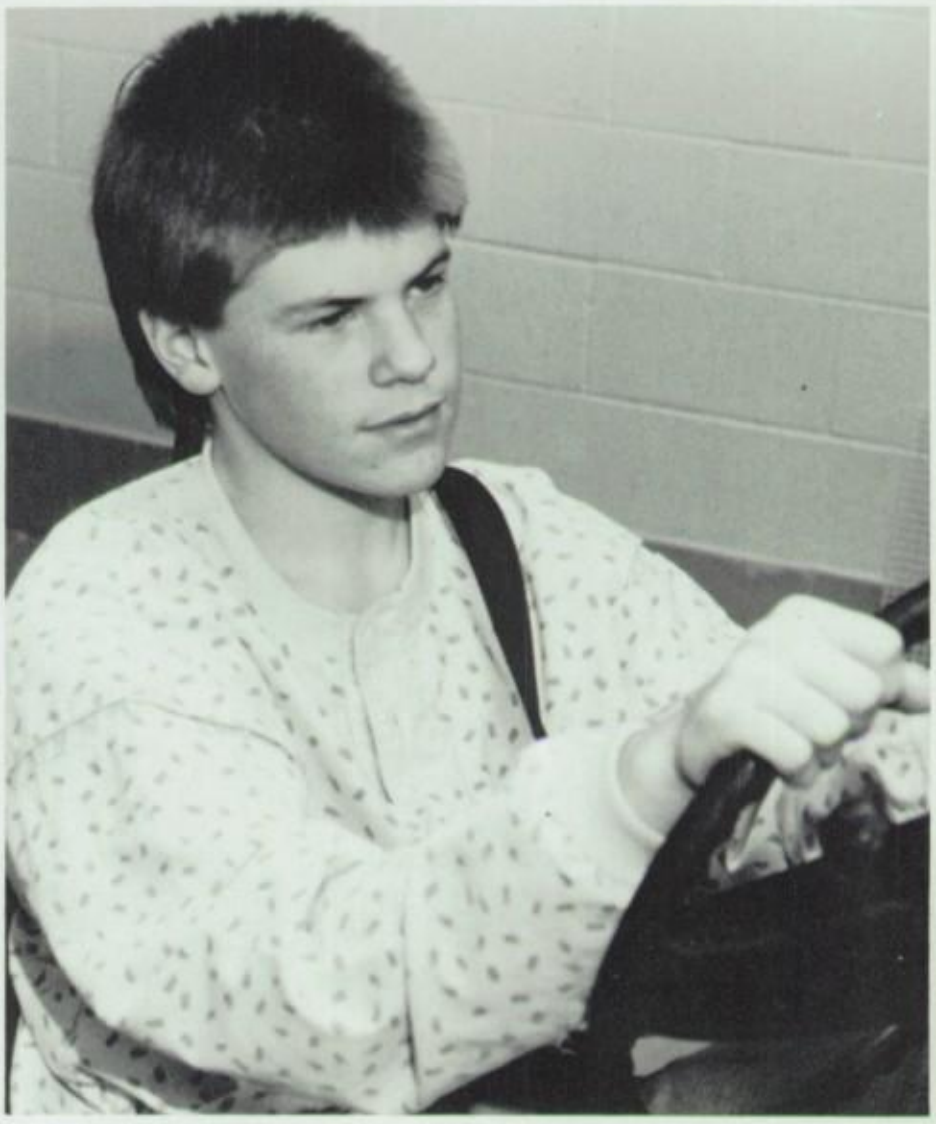
Running on Empty!!

Since Henry Ford marketed the car, millions of people have become very anxious to drive, and so were the sophomores. For the sophomores, learning how to drive is not an easy task - the behind the wheel lessons are the most difficult. In BTW, students learn how to maneuver a car from simulation and classroom lecturing. Students drive under the watchful eye of either Mr. Russ Sumka, Mr. Terry Artman or Mr. Andy Preuss. Through the BTW students become familiar with driving in many places such as: the parking lot, the tollway, and the streets around the area. Because of the requirement of students to pass both BTW and classroom, the driver's education has improved.

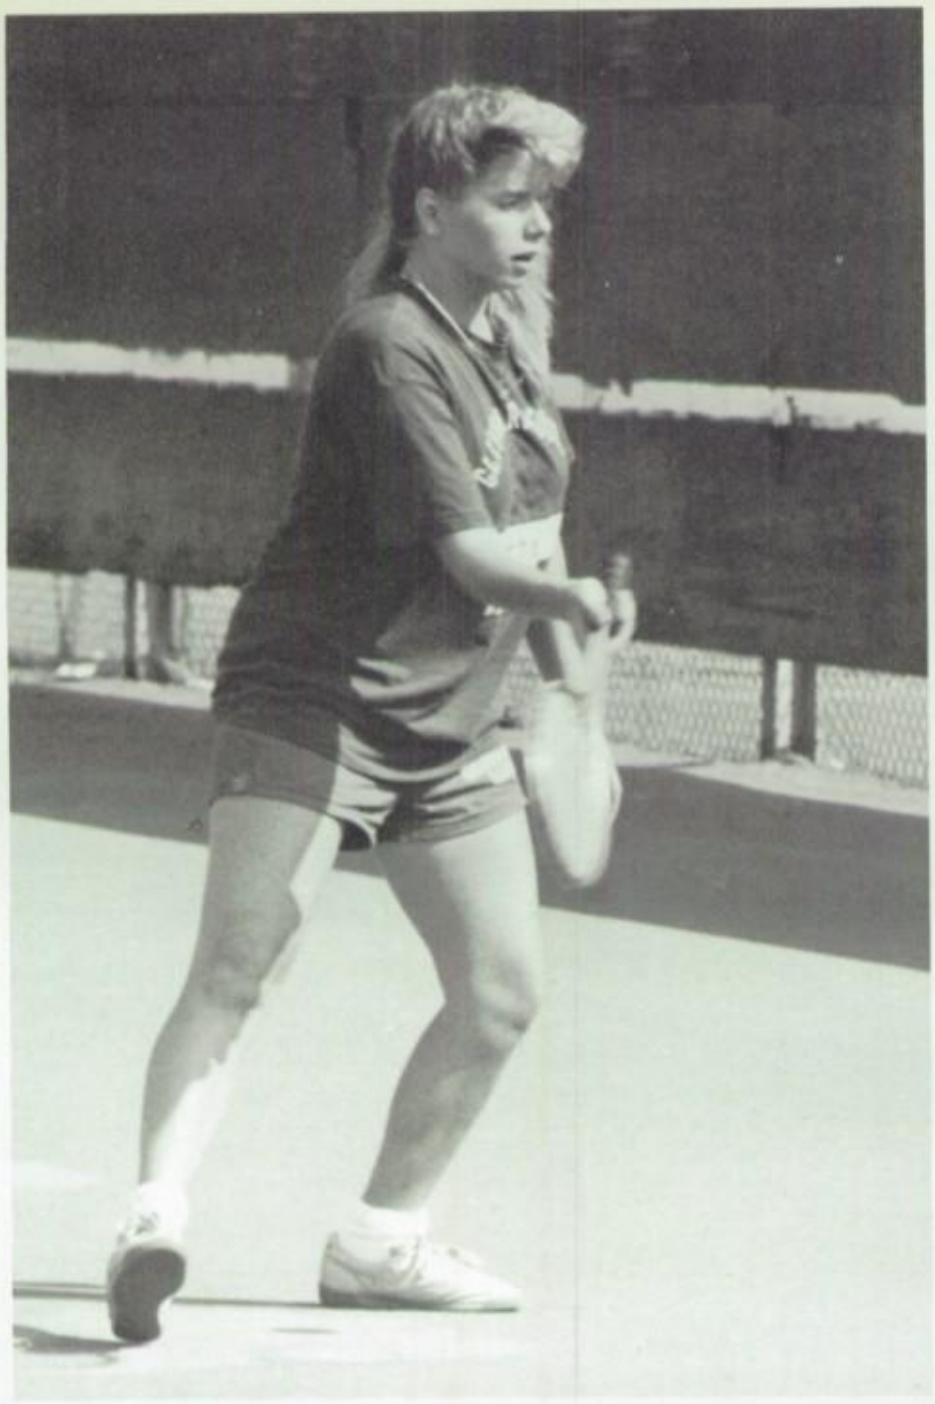
-Chris Gonzales-

Whoops! I forgot to put this car in park.

Barb Fox Cruising for dudes.



Waiting for the stoplight to turn green, Jason Ebel, vegetates.



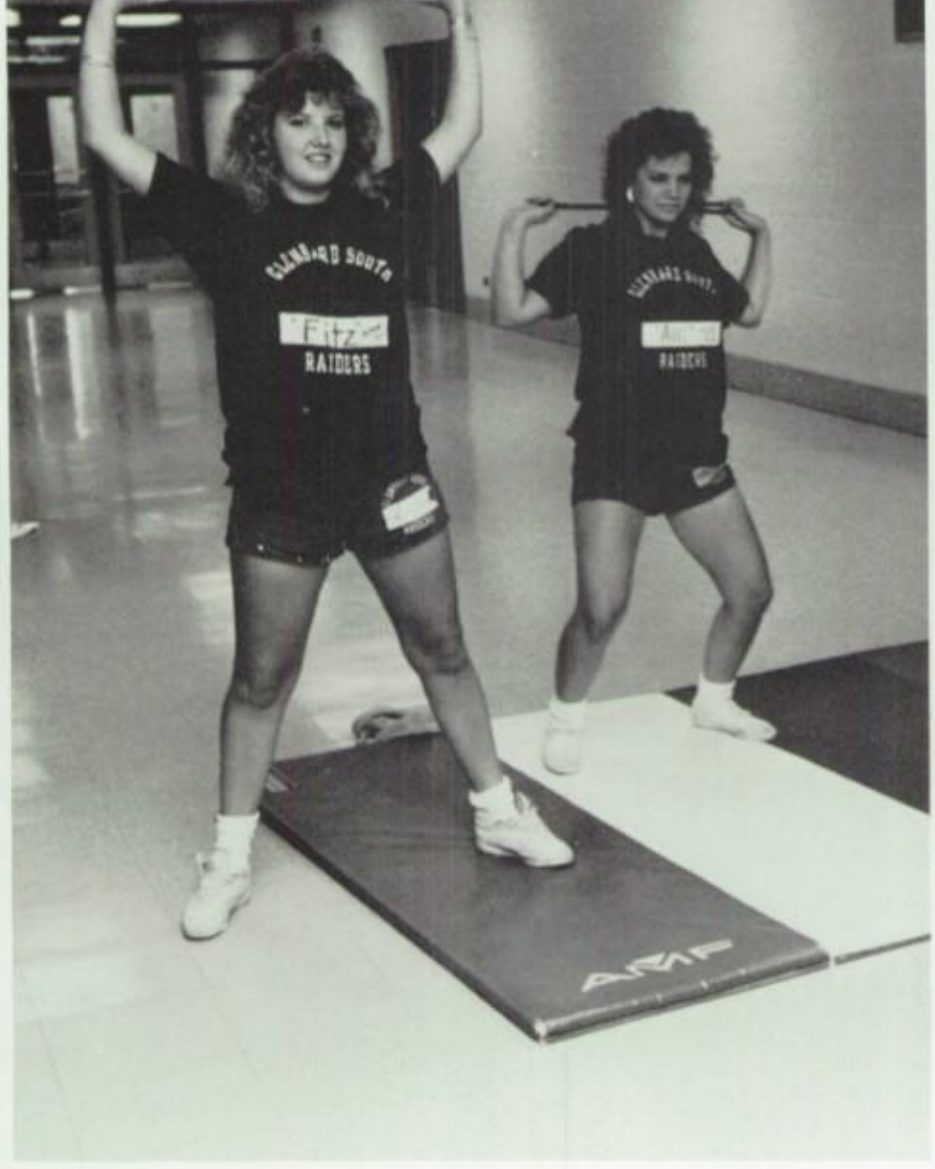
Let's Get Physical

Every student knows Physical Education is a required course. Howard Sokol, head of the Physical Education department believes that it is a good thing that Physical Education has become a required courses because it will help the students to improve their health and physique through exercise, sports, and weight lifting.

Aerobic class is a new curriculum supervised by Mary Grady, In this class students are trained to stretch their muscles and bones for a flexible body. Exercises like these will improve reflexes, especially when inhanced by music. Glenbard South offers various sports ranging from football to badminton. Mr. Sokol reported that students will learn to play skillfully and competitively.

Weightlifting and strength training are both sports that need endurance, patience, hard work, and confidence. In strength training, students are tested to improve their strength by working with a computer program.

-Chris Gonzales-



What a forehand!!

Anne Carveth leads the girls weightlifting class.

Guide Me And I Will Follow

The guidance department is an integral and essential part of the everyday life here at GSHS. Students seeking help with personal or academic problems can make an appointment to see his or her guidance conselor, the school social worker, or speech therapist.

Another major role the guidance department plays is helping students plan for their future. Assisting students with college preparation is, perhaps, their biggest responsibility. Everyone in this department is very helpful, particularly when it comes to college applications, financial aid, and scholarships. They also post many bulletins to keep students up to date on upcoming events and deadlines.

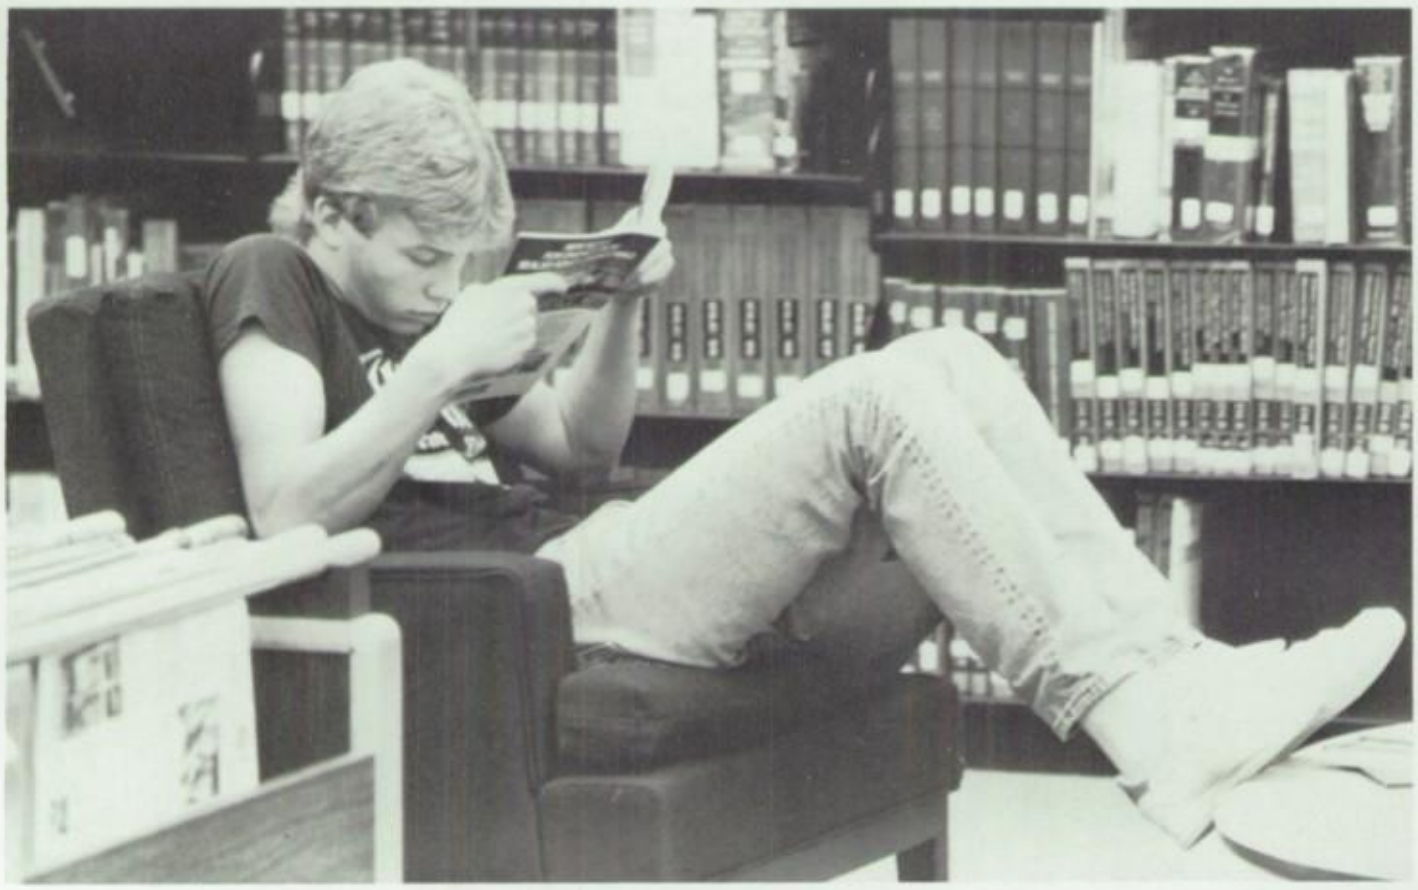
Not enough can be said about how helpful the guidance department is, including the secretaries. They always do what they can to see that the students reach their goals . . . in high school as well as after.

Well what do we do after we're done with these?

Receiving guidance in that special way.

Mrs. Scowden explains the future.

Independsible Knowledge



One of the most benificial resources available to students is the library. Students use the library to help write their research papers, check out books to read for pleasure and excitement, read the newspaper in order to catch up on the world news (or just the comics) and finally to help them plan a future in the Career Resource Center. Although some students seem to think that the library is the perfect place to socialize or take a nap.

For the students, the library has been the place to socialize and finish class assignments in a hurry. And for the patient, hard working library staff, you have our gratitude and appreciation for all the help you have given to us. With all the effort, our praises and salutations.

The Sweet Taste Of Freedom

Senior year was the one year in school which every student looked forward to. The utter essence of the word senior brought a smile to most faces. There was something about being numero uno, top dog and head honcho which brought satisfaction to the human spirit. Seniors were kings of the hill. It took three long, hard years to climb that mountain. With the little time they had, seniors enjoyed life; they knew how to make the most out of it. At registration, the school year seemed like an eternity and summer was eons away. At graduation, seniors looked back and discovered that time had never passed so quickly. The year was fantastic. Why? Because it was senior year. Tensions eased and the atmosphere relaxed. Despite what many people hoped for, time did not stand still. But hey, it was fun while it lasted!

We've Almost Made It!!

Even though there is a fun-loving, laid-back atmosphere surrounding the newest upperclassmen, a serious thought concerning college lies in every junior's mind. Junior year is a time for college preparation, those long awaited ACT and SAT scores and a time to really start thinking of one's future. The class of 1989 shows great enthusiasm, not just for their high school career, but for their future. The class of 1989 is a very talented class concerning grades, athletic ability, and leadership among their peers.

This year the class of 1989 was led by president John Finnane, vise president Laura Jorgensen, and secretary / treasurer Jill Parsons.

Wise Fools!

The sophomore class has come a long way since last year. They have finally begun to feel a part of "high school life." The class of 1990 is a very spirited group involved in many sports and other activities. With the strong leadership of Christy Jallick, president, Sue Wesselman, vice-president, and Katie Read, secretary/treasurer, the sophomores are ready to face the challenges of being next year's juniors.

The Beginning Of A Long Journey

Even though the freshman got picked on by the other classes the whole year through, they still kept a positive attitude towards everything. Many came to South and right away became very involved in activities. The freshmen class has great potential to become one of the best classes South has seen. Their eagerness to earn good grades and do the best possible at their activities is very apparent.

The freshmen class was led by president, Megan Murphy, vice-president, Missy Crnic, and secretary/treasurer, Maria Gould. Many thanks goes to them for their hard work and dedication to the freshman class.

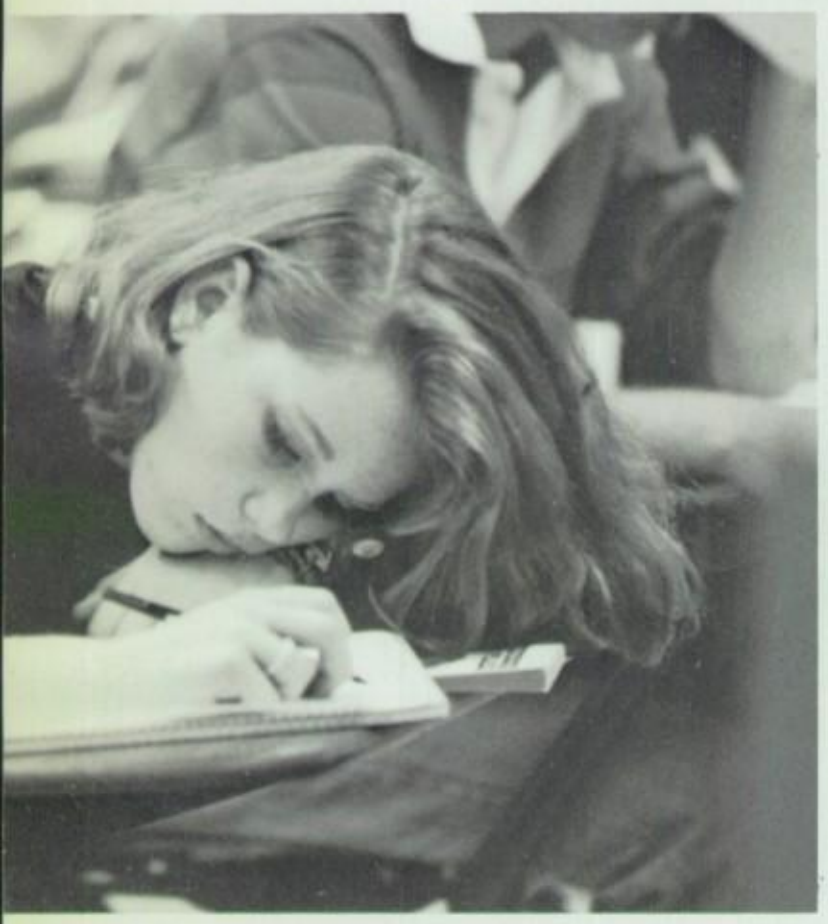
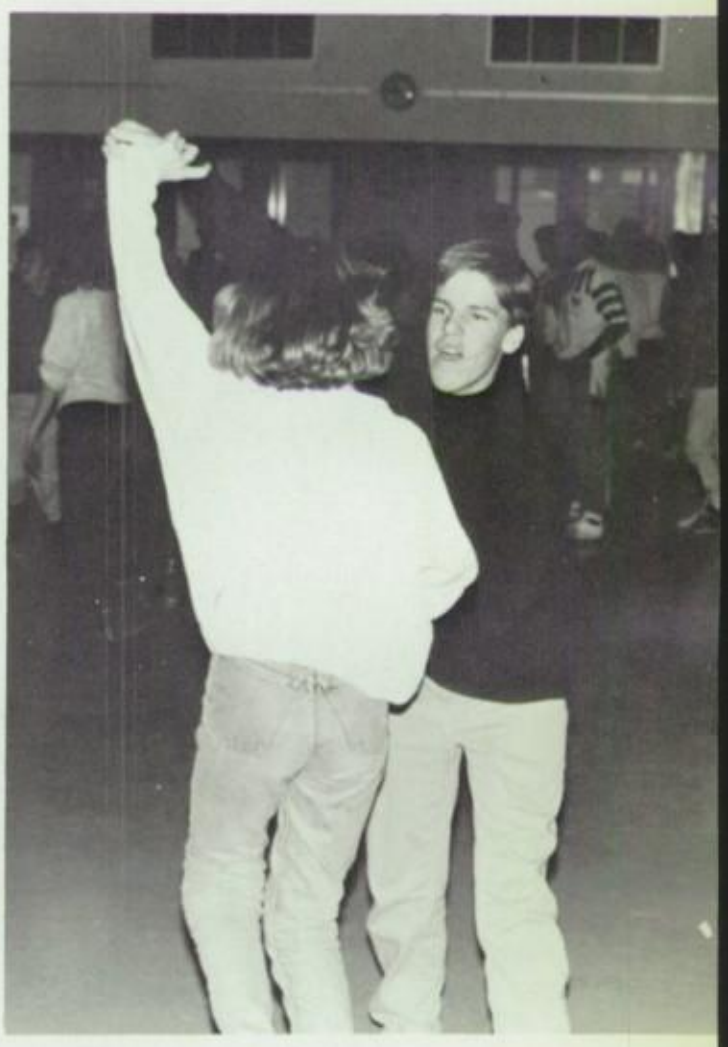
A Classic Year

Glenbard South experienced yet another classic year. The seniors finally worked their way to the top and are now dreading starting the everlasting climb all over again. Juniors busied themselves by worrying about their college entrance exams. Sophomores worked on forgetting that they were freshmen only moments before and occupied themselves with the frightening "World Behind The Wheel".

The freshmen, of course, attempted to learn the ropes and fit into high school life. All in all, the year has been a momentous one. Students come and go, and to some, they all appear alike. Here at Glenbard South, the students are in a class by themselves. No doubt about it, they make each year unique and different. Thanks to these students, 1987-88 will be remembered as a classic year.





By no means is it perfect, but it's done. There is a complete and finished yearbook in your hands. I knew it was going to be a big job, but I had no idea being editor-in-chief was this enormous. Although the finished product makes the biggest headache ever imaginable all worthwhile.

First of all I would like to thank all of the staff members for being patient with me. Yes, I ranted and raved, hagged and hasseled you, but it was only so that you and the rest of the student body would have a yearbook to autograph in June. Secondly, I would like to thank you for all of your cooperation and help in prducing such a fine book. Many thanks go to Mrs. Krema for all of her patience, help, and excellent advice. I would most especially like to thank my family, and closest friends. They gave me the needed support to get the job done. There are not too many friends who would understand such long hours and dedication.(thanks C.M. you're one in a million!)

I bid farewell not only to my yearbook experience but to Glenbard South. It's been . . . . well . . . truly memorable!

Sincerely,

Peggy Hines
Editor-in-chief
